Queen Square Archives
Archives of the National Hospital for Neurology & Neurosurgery
and the UCL Queen Square Institute of Neurology

Permanent displays

The archive collections (mainly 1860-1948) include:
- A collection of 1,500 volumes of Hospital case notes
- Extensive administrative and employment records
- Over 5,000 photographs.

“... a fabulous archive – a little gem – a goldmine for research “

“.. a superb, unique archive with excellent staff, providing a highly professional service – a joy for any researcher. This will now be my first resource for neurological history.”

‘If all Archives services could be like this, doing research would be easier.’

“The whole team ...went above & beyond what I expected of them.”

Please see: www.queensquare.org.uk/archives or contact: neuroarchives@ucl.ac.uk

Queen Square Archives
Archives of the National Hospital for Neurology & Neurosurgery
and the UCL Queen Square Institute of Neurology

Permanent displays

The archive collections (mainly 1860-1948) include:
- A collection of 1,500 volumes of Hospital case notes
- Extensive administrative and employment records
- Over 5,000 photographs.

“... a fabulous archive – a little gem – a goldmine for research “

“.. a superb, unique archive with excellent staff, providing a highly professional service – a joy for any researcher. This will now be my first resource for neurological history.”

‘If all Archives services could be like this, doing research would be easier.’

“The whole team ...went above & beyond what I expected of them.”

Please see: www.queensquare.org.uk/archives or contact: neuroarchives@ucl.ac.uk
Queen Square Archive collections include:

The original case notes of some of the most eminent people in the history of neurology who worked at the National Hospital 1863-1948.

Extensive administrative records for the Hospital from 1859-1948, plus some more recent material. This includes correspondence, minutes, financial records and reports.

Annual Reports and Board of Management minutes from 1859-1948 have been digitised and most are searchable via the Queen Square Archives website.

Deeds, plans and insurance documents—National Hospital plans have been digitised and are available on the Queen Square Archives website.

Over 5,000 photographs. Most of these have been digitised and many are available on the Queen Square Archives website.

Objects, including framed photographs and paintings, medical equipment, plaques, certificates, medals and coins.

Unpublished papers and lectures. Some of these have been digitised and are available on the Queen Square Archives website.

Employment records for all the categories of Hospital staff from 1860-1946. Medical staff records have been digitised.

www.queensquare.org.uk/archives
June 2019